

6.3.1 Hive Data

The Hive Data page captures the following general information about a hive.

Field	Description	Required
Domain Id	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• A unique id for the domain in which this hive resides.• This ID is encrypted when it is saved and stored in the database.	Yes
Help URL	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• A link to an external website that may contain additional information on using the i2b2 in your environment.• This link is only used in the i2b2 Workbench and is not available from within the i2b2 Webclient. (in the workbench heading there is a button labeled i2b2; clicking on this button will launch the website entered at this field.)	No
Domain Name	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• The name of the domain in which this hive resides.• This is the same name that is entered in your Web Client and Admin config files as well as the Workbench properties file.	Yes
Environment	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• The type of environment this hive resides. The options are:<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Development• Production• Test	Yes

Note

The hive is created when you are installing the i2b2 server. You cannot add or remove a hive from within i2b2 Admin; however you can edit the hive's data.